Mutahar Timeline

Compiled by Nikandros using Filmot for this video.

This isn't a complete list of everytime Mutahar has mentioned his work or told details about it in his public videos, and my video barely scratches the surface of pointing out the contradictions in his claims, or issues with his lack of technical understanding when contrasted with his claimed credentials.

Privacy Concerns

As I described in my video, in a journalistic context, public interest can be used to justify breaches of privacy, but I don't do anything like that in my video. All the information is from videos on Mutahar's channel, archives of his public streams, or other appearances he's consented to.

I make the disclaimer anyway because of people who have been mindraped by Facebook and other large social media services who want them to spill all their sensitive information online.

These people don't understand that their public social media posts are pieces of media they've published for anyone in the world to see, or the fact that the information they put out there can be collected and analyzed to figure out a lot more about them than they realize.

If there are any embarrassing details about your life you want to write down but don't want anyone to leave nasty comments on, grab a pencil and a piece of paper. No matter what you write down on it, as long as you don't show it to anyone or post a picture of it online, no one can make fun of you for it.

Pretty cool, huh?

The Timeline

Note to CREATORS: If you use this resource to make a video of your own, you're using research I've done, and if you don't make it clear you're using my work, you're presenting it as your own. That is known as plagiarism.

Feel free to use this information in videos, present it, and monetize it to your heart's content on one condition: credit me for my work if you're using it.

If you don't like the watermarks in my footage, take it up with the people who have been harvesting information from my videos without credit. I didn't know my work was worth stealing and making money from, but apparently it is, and I won't tolerate it.

I completely condemn, discourage and disavow any kind of harassment or unwanted contact in any context with any of the people I cover in my videos.

Misc

You know what's really funny? The voice of the GameStop employee in the end is Dickers. He has a computer science degree specialized in AI.

I did not remember that when I worked on the video, he only reminded me about that when I asked him to preview it before release.

Instead of having his educated perspective on Mutahar's descriptions of his pre-YouTube computer jobs and his more recent videos about AI (Mutahar clearly has no clue what he's talking about and often is clearly bragging or making things up), all you got was me putting some unfunny graphics on the screen making fun of his delivery.

I had access to the expertise of a computer science graduate and I used them to do a voiceline for a dumb meme. Very Good!

Then I followed it up with a cringy anime protag line which in my autistic mind was an attempt at telling Mutahar that he needs to stop lying because it's just hurting himself.
